School Board Elects Officers for 2011
Hydra Mendoza is Board President

January 12, 2011 (San Francisco) – Last night, the San Francisco Board of Education elected its officers for the 2011 year. Commissioner Hydra Mendoza is now president of the Board of Education (BOE) and Commissioner Norman Yee is vice president.

President Mendoza is beginning her second four-year term on the board and Vice President Yee is in year three of his second four year term.

“We need to continue to be good stewards for our kids and their families,” says Mendoza. “We’re going to have some hard times ahead and will need the support of the greater city and community based organizations to build more public private partnerships.”

Mendoza adds, “The progress that we’ve made speaks to the good work we’ve been doing. As we make the tough decisions, it will be important for us to be inclusive and do our best to make the process as transparent as possible.”
