Highlights for November 6-12
Building Careers and Solar Kitchens

Fresh from a visit from alum Carlos Santana, some Mission High students might be thinking about a career as a rock star, but they aren’t ruling out other jobs just yet. An emergency medical technician and real estate professional – both Mission High alums – will be joining dozens of others for Career Day. People from a range of industries including finance, environmental science, culinary arts, and firefighting will talk with juniors and seniors about how they got started in their careers, why they love the work they do, and what college degrees or technical education students will need if they choose to pursue the same careers.

When: Tuesday, Nov. 8 / 1:45 – 2:30 p.m.
Where: Mission HS / 3750 18th St.

Fifteen SF restaurants, including Jardinière, Foreign Cinema and Millennium are helping the organization From the Garden to the Table raise funds to build a solar-powered teaching kitchen at Everett Middle School. A storeroom will be converted into a solar-powered kitchen made with green, sustainable building materials and equipment for teaching students and families about healthy and organic cooking. Daytime and evening classes will make use of produce from the school's garden and food that families receive from the on-site food bank. All restaurants participating in the fundraiser this month will be donating proceeds.

When: Thursday, Nov. 10
Where: Elite Café / 2049 Fillmore St.
Foreign Cinema / 2534 Mission St.
